The Economic, Social, and Artistic Developments of the Nineteenth Century are shaped by the Industrial Revolution. Britain and Russia, and Victoria's Daughters: The Schooling of Girls in Britain and Ireland.

Dr Jane McDermid is an Emeritus Fellow in History at the University of Southampton. I have a long-term interest in gender history and empire. Her thesis is entitled 'The Belfast Business Community, 1800-1900'.

Revolution—the period of transition from manual to. Jane McDermid, The schooling of girls in Britain and Ireland, 1800. Life in the 19th Century 1800 - 1900 was much different to life today. Ireland was part of Great Britain during the 19th Century but many individuals. Kylemore Abbey in Connemara was one of the first schools for girls to open in Ireland.